Pinkus Dermatopathology Laboratory is honored to welcome Dr. Liaqat Ali as a member of its physician staff. Dr. Ali is nationally board-certified in anatomic and clinical pathology. His medical education credentials are excellent, having received a medical degree (MBBS) from Nishtar Medical College. Since earning his medical degree, Dr. Ali successfully completed a four-year residency in anatomic and clinical pathology at the State University of New York (SUNY) and the Roswell Park Cancer Institute, Buffalo, NY; a one-year fellowship in hematopathology at the University of Illinois Hospital & Health Sciences System, Chicago, IL; a one-year fellowship in oncologic surgical pathology at the Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center, New York City, NY; and a one-year fellowship in dermatopathology at the Penn State University Milton S. Hershey Medical Center, Hershey, PA. It should be noted that Dr. Ali has acquired special skills in the comparative genomic hybridization and fluorescence in situ hybridization (FISH) analyses of melanoma.

Dr. Ali has coauthored numerous cancer-related articles that were subsequently published in some of our more prestigious medical journals. He also coauthored published book chapters on key dermatology-related topics, coauthored several published medical abstracts, and coauthored numerous poster presentations given at the annual meetings of renowned medical societies.
